RESEARCH REVEALS ALL-BRAN RICH IN HEALTH-ELEMENTS

with "Bulk" and Vitamin B; Also Has Iron

Recent scientific research shows that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains two things needed to overcome temporary and recurring constipation. It has "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract.

These two important food-elements promote regular habits, and help do away with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy, so often the result of constipation. The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is mild in action — much like that of let-tuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, softer, more palatable. Isn't this pleasant "cereal way" far more healthful than using pills and drugs-so often habit-forming? Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's daily — enough for most types of constipation. If your in-testinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor. Besides, ALL-BRAN brings your body twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight

Will the Voters of Fulton County Give Their Consent to Retire From Office the Man Whose Long, Bitter and Valiant Fight Routed the Grafters From the City Government of Atlanta?

TO THE VOTERS OF FULTON COUNTY:

On September 14th, the people of Fulton County are asked to elevate an ex-official from Florida to the most important office in respect to law enforcement in the State of Georgia.

You are asked to replace a faithful, able and experienced official-John A. Boykin-with an untried man but recently come from another state.

You are asked to forget and retire from office a prosecuting attorney whose achievements in the prosecution of crime and corruption in high places are notable

To the thoughtful and reflecting citizen, it is inconceivable that any voter of Fulton County would cast his ballot to destroy the salutary and wholesome effect of the city graft convictions by voting to remove from of-fice the man whose indomitable courage, herculean labor, strong legal attainments, and unshakable tenacity in these bitterly contested cases, triumphed over every legal barrier and every possible impediment the most adroit and able defense attorneys in Georgia could pit and pile against him.

Could it be possible that the voters of Fulton County would give their consent to retire from office the man whose long, bitter and valiant fight routed the grafters from the city government of Atlanta?

It is inconceivable that the people of Atlanta—of Fulton County—could forget the prodigious labors of John Boykin, for long weary months, in ferreting out, sifting, grouping, and classifying the stupendous mass of detail and interminable labyrinth of facts, necessary in the preparation, and for the successful prosecution, of the city graft cases.

It is inconceivable that Atlanta—that Fulton County could forget the fearless work of this undaunted official in his prosecution of the Bunco Gang, when threatened with assassination, and with the dynamiting of his home, and who, despite the fact that his life was in constant peril, steadfastly and relentlessly pursued and ran down every felon among them whom it was possible to apprehend and punish.

The people will not forget this brave and faithful public servant. There is too much at stake to forget. The times are too troublous and critical to remove so powerful a figure from the front rank of the law enforcement forces of our county which bulwark and protect our people from the enemies of society, insure the safety of life and property, and the peace and security of our homes.

I present to you the man who will introduce the next Senator from Georgia."

Great Demonstration.
When Quinn had introduced Congressman Crisp, the audience arose en masse and gave to the speaker an ovation seldom accorded a public ovation seldom accorded a public figure.

At the outset, he briefly deplored the low plane on which Governor Russell had pitched the campaign.

"I believe," he said, "with Grover Cleveland, that public office is a public trust. For that reason, for three months after I announced that I would be a candidate for the senate, I remained on the job in Washington. "Contrast my attitude to public office with that of Governor Russell. From the day he announced that he would be a candidate he has neglected his official duty and Georgia has oper-

Crisp charged that the governor's promises to reduce taxes had not been kept, that the deficit he promised to wipe out had been increased and Vigorous Attack Launched.

Belying the strenuous campaign he has just gone through—a campaign that took him to more than 100 counties of the state with 70-odd speeches—the veteran Crisp, dean of the Georgia delegation in the lower house and chairman of the most powerful committee in either branch of congress, assailed his opponent with a vigor that brought wild enthusiasm to the thousands of his fellow Georgians assembled to hear him speak. to the thousands of his fellow Georgians assembled to hear him speak.

After reviewing his own record in congress—a record that has made his name a household word throughout America—Judge Crisp weheinently assailed his opponent for going about the state "deliberately and wilfully" misrepresenting his record on leading issue of the day. He called the state executive severely to task for repeatedly making the assertion that he (Mr. Crisp) was in favor of a program of cancellation of the stupendous gram of cancellation of the stupendous war debts owed the United States by foreign governments.
"In utter disregard of the official "In utter disregard of the official record and my numerous expressions on the subject," he declared, "my opponent in a desperate effort to poison the minds of the voters against me continues, even up to the last minute of the campaign, to distort and falsify my position on American war debts. He knows full well that for 10 years. on the floor of congress and off, I have stated in language that all who read can understand my unalterable opposition to any cancellation or revision of these debts. Repeatedly I have denounced the international bankers as the chief agitators of cancellation. Repeatedly I have said that under no circumstances would I consent to the scaling down of these solemn obligations.

The fiery congressman, with great feeling, denounced Governor Russell for similar miscrepresentations on the subject of a jute tariff and the billion-dollar tax bill, which congress recently enacted to balance the national budget. All over the state, he said, the governor has been going telling the people in his various speeches stories relating to these subjects not in keeping with the facts or official record.

"Is it possible," he declared, "that man's record can be so distorted, so nisrepresented, as to deceive the public? Can a candidate for public office be permitted to be the beneficiary of such tactics."

Quinn Introduces Speaker. Introducing the congressman, Quinn said:
"Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

"For several weeks past we have witnessed an active campaign over Georgia for the office of United States senator. From every hamlet in the state we hear of the candidates ad-dressing the voters. We have gathered there this evening to greet and listen to one who has played the principal part in the campaign mentioned. Vot-ers of Fulton county are fair, they are intelligent; after all the thunder "Appeal is made to labor from outof a political campaign is over they settle down, go to tle polls on elec-tion day and vote for performance in-stead of promise."

"I use the words performance and promise, because to my mind they stand out a prominent in this race. Performance of a mn with an un-blemished record of 20 years of public blemished record of 20 years of public service, and my friends, not a word spoken or even a mouth whisper against the character, the honesty, the reputation and the record of the man we honor tonight until the beginning of this campaign—and then only by his opponent. Performance of a man his opponent. Performance of a man who has fairly and squarely met the important questions and issues that confront this country today. Performance of a man who by his arguments and votes in the house of representa-and votes in the house of representa-tives has never trimmed a sail to meet a political breeze.

"So much for performance. Let us now consider a few promises. I need not call a name but most of the promises made in the last governor's elec-tion still remain promises. Did he not make many of them and ask the people to give him at least two years to fulfill them?

The last-minute printed attack pretends to be a reproduction, in part at least, of an editorial in a current issue of the Carroll County Times, but in the conditions it sets forth as facts such a profound ignorance of congressional affairs is manifested as to raise a question of any newspaper's willingness to print it without closer editing.

willingness to print it without closer editing.

It singles out nine members of the house of representatives, who it says, are members of the Catholic faith, and describes them as heads of important committees which are given. Despite the fact that committee chairmanships are determined by the timeworn rule of seniority, the circular attempts to charge Mr. Crisp with responsibility for their positions.

But the gross misstatement of fact is found in the committee chairmanships assigned to the nine Catholic members. For example, the circular makes the assertion that Representative John J. Delaney, of New York, is the head of the house naval affairs committee. The committee, as everyone in the state knows, is headed by a Georgia congressman, Representative Cari Vinson, of Milledgeville. It states that the powerful appropriations committee is headed by Representative John J. Boylan, of New priations committee is headed by Representative John J. Boylan, of New York, when the chairman of the committee, as the congressional directory will show, is Representative Byrnes, of Tennessee.

Representative Paul H. Maloney, a Catholic of the state of Louisiana, is declared to be the head of the committee on interstate and foreign com-merce. But in actuality the chair-man is Representative Sam Raburn, of Texas. The same misrepresenta-tion is made of the chairmen of the committee on rules, headed by Mr. Pou, veteran North Carolina member, and the committee on rivers and har-bors, presided over by Mr. Mansfield, of Texas.

WOODRUFF CLAIMS VOTES HAVE SAVED MILLIONS IN RATES

Albert J. Woodruff in a statement Albert J. Woodruff in a statement issued Monday declared that through the aid of his votes the citizens of Georgia had saved millions of dollars in public utility rates. Woodruff is a candidate for re-election to the Georgia public service commission. "I was elected to represent the people of Georgia and my record is clear on that fact." he said. "In my last race I carried 151 out of 161 counties. I received almost 20 votes to every one that my opponent received. The people at that time believed that there should be at least one experienced businessman on the commission, and they still believe that. My record as a representative of the commission, and they still believe that. My record as a representative of the public will stand the scrutiny of anyone and it is my firm conviction that when the polls close on Wednesday the majority that I will pile up will indicate what the good people of Georgia think of a man who will stay on the job and fight continuously for their rights and for their best interests."

"TRADING" TO GIVE JOBS TO RELATIVES ATTACKED BY HALL

"The practice of state officials trading places in their offices for positions in other departments for relatives is one of the reasons why it costs so much to run the state," Jesse S. Hall, candidate for secretary of state, said in a statement Monday.

"If I am elected secretary of state, and I am very sure that I will be, I will make no such trades. Neither will I, if I offer for a second term, have any objection to a thorough discussion of my official record. I have charged John Wilson and his family with having held from three to five state positions for many years. He does not deny the charge. I have charged him with allowing concerns whose permission to sell stock has been revoked to continue to do business. He has not denied this, All he has done is to cry that this. All he has done is to cry that I have 'attacked' him. Every charge that I have made is true. "A vote for me Wednesday is a vote

"The unfair primary law which we have in this state should be amended to the extent of doing away with the county unit system and let a man's vote in Fulton county and in other large counties count for as much as a vote in any county in the state. Under the present law a vote in Fulton county will not count for one-tenth as much as a vote in a smaller county of the state. My position is that every citizen of Georgia, without regard to his place of residence, should have the same voice in selecting our state house officials; and under the present house officials; and under the present primary law or the county unit system, the larger counties are discriminated against and the vote of the people in the larger county does not count for as much as a vote of one residing in a small county.

The combined report of the democratic national committee and victory fund showed receipts of $235,670 and disbursements of $230,948.

All reports were for the three-month period from June 1 to September 1. Unpaid obligations of the national committee were listed at $469,148, with pledges of $200,502.

John J. Raskob, former national chairman, and the County Trust Company of New York, are the largest creditors of the national committee. The County Trust Company holds the note of $301,162.50 while Raskob has three notes totaling $122,254.16.

While no actual improvement has been made in the automobile business in the past few weeks, optimism and confidence on the part of the public have increased appreciably, Earl H. McCarty, president of the Nash Motor Company, of Kenosha, Wis., said Monday in Atlanta. He was here visiting J. M. Harrison, local Nash distributor.

"It would be absurd for me to say that actual sales in the automobile industry were better," he said. "We are like the man who was asked how business was, and he replied, 'Fine, what there is of it. As a matter of fact automobile sales are off.

"But I do find this—sentiment has improved immensely. Everywhere I go I find more confidence on the part of business people, more optimism.
"Increased commodity prices are responsible for this change of sentiment.

The Southern Railway Company today asked the interstate commerce commission to authorize it to abandon 61 miles of its lines in Virginia and Tennessee.

The company would abandon 11 miles of the Virginia & Southwestern, a subsidiary, between Rexford and Buladeen, Tenn. because of heavy losses in operation costs.

The other line is the Atlantic & Danville railway, 50 miles long from James River junction to Claremont Wharf, Va. It would be abandoned only as to operation, and the tracks only as to operation, and the tracks would remain. The company said the territory traversed has not been developed industrially and that agricultural department is small.

The Bank put me BEHIND THIS DESK"

The MAN-ON-THE-STREET

I HE other day I dropped into the office of one of the bank customers and told him, "I'm the 'Man-on-the-Street,' just busy finding out things about The Citizens & Southern National Bank. Tell me what you know about them?"

His eyes sparkled as he said, "The bank put me behind this desk and I shall owe them a debt of gratitude all my life. I was a minority stockholder in this business, about to be frozen out. Buy-sell or get out, was the ultimatum I had received, and 'sell out' meant at the other fellow's price. Desperate, I went to The Citizens & Southern National Bank and told my story. No need to go into the details, but the bank made it possible, and this is my business today." And the funny part of this story is that when I went back to the bank, they did not see why this man should feel any obligation. "Blank is a good man," they told me, "he justified our cooperation and we gladly gave it."

To the men in the bank it was all in the day's work-merely what they were expected to do. But, it meant a lot to Blank. Perhaps you have a problem wherein the bank can help. If so, come in and

There are less than 200 jobs in the department of agriculture and one of my opponents has promised these to at least 1,000 people.

"Never before in the history of the state is it so necessary to take this department out of the hands of the politicians and use it solely for the benefit of the farmers. I have not promised one job for the support of any person and I am depending on the good sense of Georgia voters to elect me. I am the only genuine farmer in this fight. J. Clarke Luke Jr., Ocilla candidate for the prison commission, said Monday that a vote for him in the primary Wednesday "means a vote to end the present extravagantly operated, awkwardly managed and inhumanly administered penitentiary system of Georgia."

Luke said:

"After a visit to 159 counties I am convinced that a large majority of the voters will register their preference for me. There should be no sentiment involved in deciding between the candidates for this office. It is one of the most important state positions, and if there is any excuse for reorganizing anything, there could be no better beginning than the prison commission."

"It is a part of the platform of one of my opponents that he favors election of municipal court judges by the people. He is judges because the law requires us to do so. We do not make the laws. We did not seek the responsibility. If the law is changed I will be relieved.

Out in my ward the people are told by the workers that if I am defeated I will get a federal appointment. That does Governor Roosevelt an injustice. Some able judges and many able lawyers actively supported Governor Roosevelt. He would naturally favor them over me when he loser in Georgia. This grand jury wants to commend Mr. Boykin for his painstaking and diligent work in this investigation and again beg of the people of this city that they give to him and to the incoming grand jury the assistance and co-operation which this very serious situation demands. We wish to compliment, too, his closest assistant, Ed. Stephens, and all the other employees in his far too small force, for their patience and energy in this work."

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of articles by Ralph Mc-Gill, Constitution Sports Editor, on Southern conference football teams. Mr. McGill is now on a tour of the conference camps and will write daily articles, giving Constitution readers first-hand information about the teams and players. The first article today deals with the prospects of Vanderbilt University.)

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 12.—Your Uncle Dan McGugin, for night onto 30 years chief of the Commodores, finds himself this season without the two weapons he uses best-a kicker and a passer.

Give your Uncle Daniel a kicker who can get the football down the field for serious distances, a passer who can handle the ball, and he will stick a few crip-ples in at some other positions and bound up with a Touthall team which will cause no end of trouble.

I found him surrounded by the huge figures of Russ Cohen, former head coach at L. S. U., and Josh Cody, former head coach at Clemson, and both good coaches and successful ones.

The Commodore squad has a lot of power. Good, old-fashioned manpower. There are a lot of hairy-chested young men on the Commodore squad who could double for Tarzan. And you know that lad Tarzan.

But there seems to be no one who will give the Commodores a kicking game. And there seems to be no one who can supply the Commodores with a passing game. Which is a strange predicament in which to find the Nashville football hopes. And then, too, the Commodores have bobbed up with some-thing new in the football world. I judged, from the worried look on your Uncle Daniel's face, that he was considerably worried lest some of his boys trip over their Phi Beta Kappa keyes and break a leg or get hump-backed from carrying around scholastic honors. There are six men on the squad eligible for Phi Beta Kappa. The means they are students who average about 90 for three or four years. And there are others who are near that honor. Only three or four of the 30 have any difficulty with the text books.

This, of course, will be a great blow to the Carnegie Foundation which delights in spending a great deal of money each year to prove that the football players are dumb students, just a shade dumber than track athletes. And that wrestlers are the smartest.

The foundation will no doubt frown heavily on Vanderbilt's football players are the smartest. ball outfit. It is against all tradition.
Vanderbilt lost four conference games last fall. Alabama, Georgia, Tulane and Tennessee were the teams beating them. And yet the Com-modores were a better team than the record indicated. They lost, for instance, four men in the week before the Alabama game. And in the Ten-Commodores were deep in their territory, thus giving the Vols repeated chances to score. And before the Tulane game the Commodores lost two backfield stars. And at Georgia three first-string players were hobbled on the bench with injuries. In addition to this the team was worried by dissension.

Vandy Always Around Top.

The Commodores have been among the first eight teams in the conference and in previous organizations for about 30 years. And there is ference and in previous organizations for about 30 years. And there no reason to place them lower than fourth this fall.

The Commodores play a very difficult schedule. It is not a well-arranged one so far as difficult games are concerned. They will hardly win all their games. They lost four last fall. They have this year practically the same material that was on hand last fall. Still minus an experienced kicker and passer. The opposition is about the same, probably stronger at Tennessee and Alabama, a bit weaker at Georgia than last season, and goodness knows what at Tulane. The Wave should be a bit weaker, but the Wave insists it in? And for the nast couple of years they've been right. sists it isn't. And for the past couple of years they've been right. Vanderbilt, if a kicker and passer are developed, may surge forward and become one of the great teams of the south. On the face of things, however, there is no basis for believing that a great team will result from the combined efforts of McGugin, Cohen and Cody.

Larry Burton, a sophomore back, is being regarded with affectionate interest. He shows some signs of becoming a real kicker. Consequently, he is as much prized as a first-born son.

They all crowd around and watch him say "Da Da" with his foot. They all hope he gets to talking by the time the early games come the first-string players and substitutes, there are eight seniors and two juniors. Three sophomores are accorded an excellent chance

Much depends, of course, on the development of Burton, the sonho more back, and on the accomplishments of Bob Berson, a tackle was ill last season. He had malaria. He has taken enough quinine during the summer to sink a ship and thinks he will go all right. He is a big fellow and will make the regular tackles, Tex Leyendecker and Jim Beas-ley, the latter an ex-guard, step around considerably. He will add strength

McGugin Sees a Good Team.

Dan McGugin thinks his team will be a good one, but does not expect any championship or "undefeated" dreams to go flitting around in-practically what it was last season, and that they have no kicker and passer. This leaves the question right up to you and I fum-bled it. I have an idea the Commodores will be better than last

There is Pete Gracey, the best center in the league, as the pivot man. He weighs close to 190. The guards are Bill Surheinrick, Marion Talley, Harry Guffee, a sophomore, and Hagan Powell, who saw some service last fall as a center.

This makes an excellent center of the line. Both guards are adept at pulling out and galloping in the interference. There seems

The tackles, with Tex Levendecker and Jim Beasley as first-stringers and with Bob Berson and Nance Jordan and others, as second-string men, he tackles look good.

Joe Myers, a senior end, who was out last season because of an injury, is back to strengthen the end positions. Julian Foster, the big Georgia boy, who found his real position at end last season, also returns. Leo Dickison, a sophomore, is likely to play a lot at end. As is Oscar Noel Jr. The latter is the son of an old Vanderbilt star of the old days.

The Commodores have several good running backs, "Mighty" Close the quarterback, was hurt most of last season, but seems as healthy as a circus strong man this fall.

Dixie Roberts, who was a great back last fall in most of his engagements, and Larry Burton, the sophomore halfback hope, are a couple of backs for one lineup. With them will run "Good"

Fortune, one of the better fullbacks in 1931.
The second backfield, which the coaches hope to alternate with the first, will find Tommy Henderson, a star last season, at quarterback; Buck Watkins and Joe Whitfield at halfbacks and a new sophomore, Eugene Beck, at fullback.

Not Large But Has the Power.

There are other good-sized players cluttering up the place. The Commodores have a squad of about 30 men. It isn't a large squad, but it contains some large assortments of power. It remains to it contains some large assortments of power. It remains to be seen how much skill at kicking and passing, indespensable qualities of balance, can be introduced.

The coaching is excellent. Cody and Cohen work together well with McGugin. They are going at a great pace with the present with McGugin. They are going at a great pace with the present

It should result in a better pass defense than was present last season; better blocking, better tackling and better line play. The offense remains questionable. If Burton or some other player delivers with his toe, things will look better there.

The offense remains questionable. If Burton or some other player delivers with his toe, things will look better there.

The Commodores do not look as good as their friends at Knoxville would have the public believe. But the Commodores will hardly lose four games this fall. They play Mercer, North Carolina, Western Kentucky, Tulane, Georgia, Georgia Tech, Maryland, Tennessee and Alabama, meeting all the hard ones while their ancient foes, Alabama and Tennessee, meet but two each.

Do not sell Commodore stock short. It may be a bull stock before November ends.

Memphis Bill Plans To Reorganize Team for 1933.

Stoneham made no mention of Terry's salary but it is understood to be about $25,000 with a bonus at the end of 1933 and an increase in 1934 if the Giants finish well up in first division next season.

Terry said he would reorganize the team next year into a "much more formidable organization." He said he could not announce definite plans at this time because the season was not finished.

However, it is understood in baseball circles that Bill will shake up

Terry was particularly disappointed in the failure of his pitching staff this season and the slump of many of the club's most dependable players.

Vanderbilt should have a better blocking team this fall than ever blocking. And he has the Commodores going at that job with a lot of dietermination.

The Commodores were woefully weak on pass defense last season, Georgia and Tulane, especially, giving the team a lot of misery and woe with that weapon.

By Alan Gould,

FIVE FARMS COURSE, BALTIMORE COUNTRY CLUB, Sept. 12.— (AP)—American golfing youth launched its second successive fling at the United States amateur golf championship today as a brilliant young newcomer, 20-year-old Johnny Fischer, of Cincinnati, holder of the national intercollegiate title, shot out in front with a par-busting 69 for the first 18 holes of the 36-hole qualifying battle.

Fischer topped an all-star international field of 154 starters, with two strokes to spare, in a day marked by some surprising youthful sorties, several notable comebacks by the "old guard," including Chandler Egan and Chick Evans, and a flock of unexpected reversals for the merican as well as the British Walker cup forces.

Fischer's nearest rival in the big scramble for the 32 match-play qualifying positions was Jack Westland, of Chicago, who finished with a 71, one over par. Westland was the pace-setter at the outset of last year's qualifying test and runner-up to Champion Francis Ouimet, of Judge Landis.

The latest mandate handed down by his excellency, Mr. Landis, was on the Chatta-nooga-Memphis situation. The judge sided Chattanooga in the case. Watkins over at Memphis, like the good paseball man that he is, carried his fight to the last ditch and lost.

The judge, like a good umpire, rarely reverses a decision. The thousands of fans in Atlanta who were rooting for Bert Niehoff's team thought that his first ruling handed down on the matter would be the last one. It was, although the judge had to repeat it three times to convince the hard-working and perspiring Mr. Watkins.

There the matter stands. Landis' word is still law and in his capacity as baseball's supreme dictator, his position is stronger han ever. He did not dilly-dally around over the matter or waste time with diplomacy. No subsidiary committee of baseball—such as the minor league of arbitration-was called in. Landis is the committee of committees. One sees now why baseball needs a man like him. the courage and the authority to iron out all the complex situations that

It's too bad that Dizzy Dean isn't in the series this year. He and Engel would make a great wise cracking pair. Needless to say, Engel already is digging around for something clever to pull. Chattanooga's nearness and the cheap railroad rates will give Atlantans a great chance to take in the games at Chattanooga this year. The Lookout victory was a popular one here.

Columbia Coach Forecasts Great Battles From Mid-October On.

For one thing, the rule governing the use of bands by defensive linemen should make the sport fairer for individual players, and result in an even higher Cubs couldn't fail to beat the weak-percentage of truly won games. The percentage of truly won games. The substitution rule is another that should protect the player, and I do not expect to see it abused by coaches for strategic purposes.

Princeton, in its first season under the coaching staff headed by H. O. Crisler, who has come east from Minnesota, will present one of the most interesting situations in the east. While both Yale and Harvard swing along under well-established regimes—and I believe both, especialregimes—and I believe both, especially Yale, should be among the eastern leaders—Princeton faces the taxing job of launching a new system of attack and defense.

INTERESTED IN TIGERS. I'll admit I am particularly interested in the Tigers' development because of Columbia's October engagement with them. Obviously, Crisler faces a task of building, but with such backs as Draudt, Knell and Purnell, and a line built around Hinman, Colson, Billings, Garrett and their teammates, as well as the less known sophomores, we'll be looking for plenty of trouble October S.

Less is known of Dartmouth than of most other big teams because the Green eschews spring practice. But there are sufficient backs at Hanover to give the Green a fast running start. Dartmouth, however, must hurry to be ready for LaFayette October 8. Brown, I think, is set for a fine season despite the loss of seven valuable regulars of last year. Brown's freshmen were a strong team last season and if Conch "Tuss" McLaughry can uncover a capable successor to Quarterback Marsan, Brown should go a long way. Holy Cross, too, looks like one of the strong ones in New England, although no team can well afford the loss of a passer like Phil O'Connell.

ARMY AND NAVY.

Army and Navy provided a great bit of pre-season news by mending their break, a development that should help football mightly throughout the east. Army will be a powerful outfit with the fine "B" backfield of last year justed, and a great lies in the game, despite the fact he is not better grapplers today.

Army and Navy provided a great bit of pre-season news by mending their break, a development that should help football mightly throughout the east. Army will be a powerful outflit with the fine "B" backfield of last year intact, and a great lineman in Captain Summerfelt, around whom Major Sasse can build. Navy's prospect looks a little less bright. The graduation of a great center in Tuttle and two fine backs in Kirn and Tschirgi left holes for Ccach "Rip" Miller to fill. But Navy made strides last fall in Miller's first season at the wheel and I expect the improvement to continue.

In New York there should be a great season. Major Cavanaugh, at Fordham, will turn largely to the sophomores, and they will be the best of a very fine freshman squad of a year ago. Howard Cann, succeeding Chick Meehan at New York University, has installed a new attack, which means that the Violet probably will move slowly at first. N. Y. At Columbia we are somewhat better fixed for reserves than in other years and reserve strength helps to win football games. The loss of McDuffee and Nobiletti in the line and Hewitt on the backfield, however, is not easily offset. With a schedule that includes Princeton, Navy, Cornell. Brown and Syracuse, I should prefer to reserve judgment. However, I do believe Columbia will be a bit improved.

FIVE FARMS GOLF COURSE, BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 12.—They first said golf was an old man's game. Then, in the wild rush of youth, they all reversed their opinions and said it was only a young man's game, the exclusive heritage of the young and strong.

But with the first qualifying test over the Five Farms course at Baltimore completed at sunset, the diagnosticians and the specialists in years and the march of time are more baffled than ever. In a solemn conference of all the experts they finally admit that they don't know what golf is. And that is the only true verdict concerning golf ever given to the world.

Golf has no connection with youth and age. For here at the famous Five Farms course in this first test H. Chandler Egan, of Medford, Ore. shot a 73. H. Chandler Egan is 48. Just 28 years ago he won the amateur golf championship of the United States. He repeated a year

Mr. Tippett, a truck driver employed by a transfer company here, said he and his wife had taken the child out in the car and allowed her to get out and play.

The applause for Mayor Curley amounted to an ovation. He spoke of the "splendid and vibrant patriotism that is manifested within the walls of this building."

Mentioning George Washington, he added: "I can appreciate how the heart of that great hero would be saddened and filled with sorrow at the knowledge that some of those victims of our social order who in the hour of crisis stood ready to make the supreme sacrifice that free government might not perish from the earth, because they pleaded for that to which they were entitled, that they were shot down like dogs in the capital of the nation."

DOCUMENTS REFUTE McRAE'S CHARGES

NEW FACTS FROM McRAE'S RECORD SHOWN BY J. O. EWING

Truths About Whipping, Facts in Ellis Deal, and Result of Miami Bribe Case Shown in Detail; Supported by Records, Affidavits and Telegrams.

To the Citizens of Fulton County:

I have just returned to the city and learned that W. G. McRae, candidate for solicitor-general, has distributed a malicious circular in which he has made false statements concerning me. For some time previously he had been abusing me with his cowardly falsehoods. He has utilized handbills and radio where I had no opportunity to reply. Now he has made this eleventh-hour attack on me in the hope that it would be too late for me to defend myself.

In this election-eve circular, McRae charges that I visited Mr. Harold Kistler, whom McRae says is the former husband of Mrs. McRae, and that the purpose of my visit was to get information from Mr. Kistler to use against McRae in his race. He says that Mr. Kistler told me that he was "not interested in blackmail, libel or slander," when I HAVE NEVER SEEN MR. HAROLD KISTLER AT ANY TIME OR PLACE IN MY LIFE!

When McRae was a candidate for the legislature in 1930 he an-

TIME OR PLACE IN MY LIFE!

When McRae was a candidate for the legislature in 1930 he announced to the newspapers that he had been beaten up in his office on the day before the primary. He allowed the impression to exist among the voters that one of his opponents had sent somebody to his office to attack him. He promised that after the primary he would reveal the identity of his assailant.

But after the primary he never did say who beat him up, and a rumor gained circulation that Mr. Kistler, Mrs. McRae's ex-husband, was the man who blackened his eye. I addressed a letter to Mr. Kistler and sought an interview with him. I had a reply from Mr. Kistler and it is in my possession now. I NEVER DID SEE HIM.

Was Walloped by Son of Creditor.

It developed that McRae was beaten up by a citizen of Atlanta whose father had done some work for McRae, and that McRae had refused to pay his father, so the young man decided to take it out of his hide, which he did to his satisfaction.

McRae knew all the time who assaulted him, and he knew why; but he thought by letting the voters think that an opponent or somebody at the courthouse had him whipped he could make political capital of the incident.

I have related this entire incident to show the real recent had.

capital of the incident.

I have related this entire incident to show the real reason why I had tried to see Mr. Kistler (although I never did see him).

McRae also falsely charges that I tried to get from Edward O. Ellis a false affidavit against him. That statement is untrue. An affidavit from Ellis would not have been needed to strengthen the charge that McRae took a $500 bribe from Ellis for trying to legislate him out of the chain gang. The circumstances surrounding this unlawful transaction were proof enough. Here they are:

Messrs. Branch and Howard and I were representing Ed Ellis and doing all we could for him in the courts. McRae came along and gave Ellis a lot of hot air and led him to believe that he could get him out on a writ of habeas corpus or else introduce a bill in the legislature that would release him from the gang. He secured a lot of money from Ellis by promising to GET HIM OUT. When the habeas corpus proceedings failed, he got more money for introducing a bill that, owing to a retroactive clause, would have released Ed Ellis.

McRae Got Busy As Session Approached

McRae Got Busy As Session Approached.

On April 25, 1031, prior to the meeting of the legislature, of which McRae was a member, Ed Ellis sent this telegram to his brother-in-law, J. T. Sulliva, of Waterbury, Con.:

"Working on new plan Best chance yet. Must be done at once. Five hundred dollars will do it. Don't want to give McRae all at once, so make payable to a friend, Mrs. M. Brooks, Jefferson Hotel. She will bring it to me. Can't do things for myself. Now twelve miles from city. Love. (Signed) Ed.

When Sullivan got this wire, he sent the money requested and McRae receives it. It was then he tried in vain to get Ellis out through writ of habeas corpus.

When Sullivan got this wire, he sent the money requested and McRae receives it. It was then he tried in vain to get Ellis out through writ of babeas corpus.

Next, McRae himself wired Sullivan on May 15 at Waterbury as follows:

"Wish conference with you request Ed Ellis, Please advise your present address and time I may see you. (Signed) Wm. G. McRae, Hurt Bldg."

Here was McRae still trying to get money out of Ellis and his brother-in-law. The brother-in-law told me that he sent McRae another 3000,

Now, just what was this $500 given for? McRae had aiready lost his case in the courts. Let's see: the legislature was about to convene and McRae had assured Ellis that he would offer a bill in the general assembly relating to suspended sentences that would release him. He did introduce the bill, but it was defeated. Ellis got no more benefit for all the money he and Sullivan had paid McRae than if it had beeen tossed into the Chattahochee.

McRae than if it had beeen tossed into the Chattahochee.

McRae will not deny that he personally promised Ellis that if he couldn't get him out ou a habeas corpus that he would get a bill passed to kill suspended sentences, which would result in Ellis' release. He knows there was a witness to their conversation. That witness, U. A. Isom, a convict guard and a disinterested party, has made the following affidavit which is positive proof of this unlawful transaction:

GEORGIA—Fulton County.

lawful transaction:

GEORGIA—Faiton County.

"Personally appeared before me C. A. Isom, who after being duly sworn, says that he was foreman in charge of a group of white convicts at the River camp in Fulton County, Georgia, during the months of April and May, 1931. That he had charge of Ed Ellis at that time, who was serving a twelve months' sentence in the county chain gang. Deponent says that he knows Mr. William G. McRae, and that during the months of April and May, 1931, Mr. McRae visited Ed O. Ellis many times, both at the camp and ont on the works, at that time on what is known as 'Dollar Road,' where the convicts worked during the day. The first time he came to the place where we were at work, he came with a girl by name of Margie and brought a box of cigars for Ellis.

"About the latter part of April or first of May, 1931, Mr. McRae came out on Dollar road to see Ed Ellis, and under the rules of the warden, prisout on Dollar road to see Ed Ellis, and under the rules of the warden, prisoners are not permitted to talk to outsiders, or to attorneys except in the presence of a guard. On thus occasion Mr. McRae wanted to talk to Ellis privately. I told him that I had no authority to grant that permission. He then talked to Ellis in my presence. In this conversation they discussed the fee that Mr. McRae was to receive as attorney for Ed O. Ellis in the habeas corpus case before Judge Dorsey. That was to be $500.00. Then in the conversation Mr. McRae told Ellis that he was sure he would be released on the hearing of the habeas corpus case, but if he was not released there, he weuld introduce a bill in the legislature to kill all suspended sentences and that would release Ellis. He was to get one theusand dolars for that, in in-troducing the bill in the legislature and passing it. Ellis then asked to speak to Margie, who was sitting in the car, and told her to pay Mr. McRae's fee.

"After the hearing on the habeas corpus case and Ellis was not released. Mr. McRae visited Ellis sagin, both of them asked to be allowed to talk privately, that was out on the road, and was against the rule, and they talked there in my presence again.

"In this conversation, which was just a few days before the legislature convened, after discussing the case before Judge Dorsey in which Ellis was not released, Mr. McRae told Ellis that he was sure he could get the bill passed to do away with suspended sentences, and assured Ellis that this bill was going to kill his sentence, and that Ellis would be released as soon as the bill passed the legislature. He told Ellis that he knew he would get the bill passed. Ellis then agreed to pay him one thousand dollars for introducing and passing the bill to kill his sentence. Ed Ellis was greatly encouraged by the assurance given him by Mr. McRae and seemed to believe absolutely that he would soon be out.

"Shortly after the above conversation, Mr. McRae came to the camp with a special court order permitting him to see Ed Ellis outside of the presence of any guards. They were in the room together about an hour. This was about the time the legislature opened. I did not see Mr. McRae any more at the camp or on the works.

"Not long after the legislature was over Ellis told me one afternoon that he had paid McRae fifteen hundred dollars and Mr. McRae had not done a damn thing, and he was not going to pay out any more money to any one on that case. Elles and me a pleze of paper with Marcie Brooks" answe

I called her at the Jefferson Hotel and told her what Ed told me.

"JOHN H. HUDSON, Notary Public, State at Large, Ga.
This example of a corrupt attorney perverting a public office for personal gain cannot be too atrongly condemned.
But this was not the first case where McRae had corrupted an office for his personal gain. He seems to have a penchant for making a little on the side. I have the court record of the McRae bribery case in Dade county, Florida. McRae claims that the Miami indictment accusing him of taking a $3,000 bribe as justice of the peace was a "political frame-up," and that it was dropped when the state's witnesses strangely disappeared. But there is a sequel to the Miami chapter of his checkered career. He never gave the proble the details of how the matter terminated in a subsequent civil trial.

The indictment had accused Justice McRae of taking a $3,000 bribe to issue false warrant for a man named Schereber, the plaintiff being a man named Abe Cohen. It just happened that the state's witnesses were ALSO INDICTED AS PRINCIPALS, and therefore, there was really nothing strange about their disappearance.

In a civil court, Schreiber sued Cohen for damages, claiming Cohen had disappearance.

In a civil court, Schreiber sued Cohen for damages, claiming Cohen had hurt his reputation by having him arrested on a warrant that Cohen secured by bribing McRae with $3,000.

Twelve Men Said McRae Got Bribe.

Twelve Men Said McRae Got Bribe.

The judge charged the jury that if the twelve men believed that Coben DID pay McRae $3,000, and that McRae DID issue the warrant for Schreiber in consideration of the $3,000, then 'he jury should find a verdict of damages for Schreiber, AND THE JURY DID RETURN A VERDICT OF $5,000 DAM-AGES, which Cohen paid.

Now McRae, in desperation, has continued his attack on me. Why he should single me out, I do not understand. I am only one of about binety per cent of the lawyers in Atlanta who have signed a published endorsement of Solicitor Boykin. It must be that McRae is desperate and wants to divert the mind of the public from the fact that he has been exposed as an imposter and a fake with a record that is black. He does not have the respect of the Atlanta bar, nor did he have any standing at the Miami bar, where he claims to have practiced law for several years. He was repudiated in three elections in Miami Beach, after the bribery expose, and his election to the legislature here was possible only because his Florida record had been concealed from Fulton county citizens.

A charge that anybody had tried to frame him would be Indicrous. His actual career, as shown by the record, is shadier than any "frame-up" could ever make it.

Couldn't Tell All In This Small Space.

Space will not permit me to narrate all the known transactions that would further discredit this cowardly falsifier. I only mention some of them. In Miam. Beach, McRae held L. A. Miller in jail under $25,000 bond, with no evidence to convict on, and in this case there was an effort to extract money. McRae was arrested at Miami Beach for trespassing and forcibly entering the house of John Reed. By trickery he escaped prosecution. McRae extracted $300 from a Whitehall merchant. After starting prosecution McRae extracted $300 mose of John Reed. By trickery he escaped prosecution against him. McRae took money in aettlement, but tricked Solicitor McClelland into having the case nol prossed by pretending that "proper apologies" had been made by the merchant.

Claud Anderson, of South Manchester, Conn., formerly of Miami, was defrauded of $550 by McRae when McRae gave him a personal note for $1,000 in settlement of a criminal case against one of McRae's clients, David C. Nelson, and then required Anderson's attorney here, Paul Ginsberg, to accept only $150 by representing himself as "judegment proof." (See Anderson vs. McRae in municipal court here.)

I have documentary evidence, including court records, and also the telegrams referred to, and this evidence substantiates everything I say.

In denying the false charges made against me by this self-appointed custodian of the community's virtues, it behooves me to show any part of his record that hears on his credibility. I make this statement in self-defense, as would any other citizen with an ounce of manhood.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

A few weeks ago there was published in this column a letter from a man that signed himself simply "William." He was depressed because he had lost his job and distressed because he found himself a pensioner on his younger brother, was already burdened with the support of himself and his aged parents. William was so downed by his luck, financial and romantic (for he said he could make no headway with the girls), that he was contemplating suicide. Indeed he said that but for the grief his self-inflicted death would be to his old father and mother he wouldn't hesitate to destroy himself. "William." He was depressed because he had lost his job and distressed because he found himself a pensioner on his younger brother, was already burdened with the support of himself and his aged parents. William was so downed by his luck, financial and romantic (for he said he could make no headway with the girls), that he was contemplating suicide. Indeed he said that but for the grief his self-inflicted death would be to his old father and mother he wouldn't hesitate to destroy himself.

That heart-felt cry of a discouraged boy has brought five letters to this column, each of them written by an individual who has had a similar experience. A man writes as follows: "William's letter suched me very much. I know where he could get a job at $30 or $35 a month. He could get board for $15 a month. Now I know this isn't much but I am living on it and many others are. Tell him I will be glad to help him all I can."

"I have had a bad experience, too," writes a young woman. "I lost my job and had dependents who looked to me for bread. For four months I have had no work whatever. For the past year I have had five months I have had no work whatever. For the past year I have had five months I have had no work whatever. Goodness! I've already done it a dozen times. Don't you know Lux keeps things like new?

You can keep fragile, lacy underthings charming if you wash them in Lux — and wash them after every wearing. If perspiration stays in silk it rots the threads, dulls the luster and fades the color. But Lux suds gently remove all the harmful perspiration acids and disagreeable odors. In less than 4 minutes your underthings are new-looking and fresh! Remember, anything

Midsummer Madness

By Sterling North

Barbara (Bobby) Manners, beautiful in cago office girl, goes away on her two week vacation determined to forget Eddie Carlson, formerly of her office, with whom she stopped associating when she discovered his friends were of questionable reputation. At the invitation of her employer. Vincent Halloway Chiengo architect, slegoes to a lodge in a wild section of Wisconsin and there meets a nandaome voung man who calls himself fack Horner She gives her name as Bobb, Hurns, Jack tells her he has heard the lodge is haunted. Through a secret panel Bob by discovers a subterranean apartment; and, frightened, starts in a cance across the lake She ta caught in a storm, hurts he a cabin where he tells her he loves her. At a dance Bobby sees Eddie Carlson, who fights with Jack and shoots him, inflicting a scalp wound. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Bobby smiled to herself as she sealed the letter and addressed it to her aunt. No use frightening the poor dear to death with wild tales of shipwreck, shooting and sinister mystery. Aunt Pearl wouldn't sleep a wink if she had been able to read all that lay between the lines.

And yet Bobby felt that she hadn't told any falsehoods and besides—when it was all over—Bobby would tell her every detail.

It was not until Bobby had written this letter to her aunt and another to her employer, Vincent Halloway—mentioning never a word of her adventures—that she began to realize that the afternoon was waning and Jack had not yet returned.

How much he had come to mean to her in one short week! It made her realize how thoroughly she depended upon him for safety and peace of mind. If he should fail to return by dark.

But no, she would not let her mind dwell upon the possibilities. She busied herself with her rather neglected wardrobe, caught a ruin one of her stockings, pressed several dresses with old-fashioned flatiroon.

"And please take good care of yourself, Aunt Pearl, and buy yourself that new dress you wanted. We can afford it and it would be awfully becoming.

"With all my love, "BOBBY."

"Bobby had about given up the possibility of Jack's return that night and had started up the path from the pier through the darkness toward the lodge when the sound of the launch, far over the water, came to have ears.

Should be able to settle down to another sibility of Jack's return that night and by it wouldn't be fair play for me to malign a possible rival unless I was dead right in my assumptions. So I won't say another word about Eddie until I am sure. But from all I launch, far over the water, came to her ears.

Should be able to settle down to another still unless I was dead right in my assumptions. So I won't say another word about Eddie until I am sure. But from all I can gather that plane is in a queer business up this way, does all its flying that somehow he had been at fault for letting her wait so long for his r. turn.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

BY ELY CULBERTSON.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Swings in Duplicate

Duplicate Contract is extremely interesting for one reason, in that it affords an immediate and direct contrast to the swings which are sometimes produced in Contract play by freak holdings, the type of hands upon which the most heated post-mortems are held when players learn that if the hidding had taken another course, the losers might have been the winners, and the winners, the losers.

A hand of this especial type occurred in a recent Duplicate game at the Tower Bridge Club, which was participated in by many of the strongest Contract players in New York city.

(1) This bid is justified South knows that the hands fit perfectly in clubs.

North is somewhat at sea in regard to his partner's bid on the hand, but in view of the vulnerability, considers Ace-8 ade-(2) quate support to raise to game.

(3) This bid would not be severely penalized.

(4) A questionable bid, the Double probably being preferable, but

South reasons that his opponents know nothing of the fact that he has no losing heart tricks.

(5) A bad Double. West's only prospect of taking a trick is in trumps and there is no cer-tainty whatever of this.

The Redouble is a matter of course in a game of this type. If five spades cannot be made, North and South have bid too much anyhow. If five spades can be made, the Redouble may assure a top-score.

assure a top-score.

The result was that South, through a Comedy of Errors, made his contract. A diamond was opened, and East, thinking that he also held the Queen of diamonds, played the 9, which South won with the Queen. Another diamond was returned to the Dummy, which was won by East, who then gave his partner a ruff by leading a club. However, this was the last trick for East and West, and South was enabled to score a total of 1,300 points by Duplicate scoring for his daring contract.

tal of 1,300 points by Duplicate scoring for his daring contract.
At another table, West opened with the entirely unsound bid of four hearts. This North doubled, holding, as he believed, a minimum of 2 heart tricks. East redoubled, and the contract, of course, was made laid down. Thus, through contrasting bidding reactions to the cards, a swing of 2,180 points occurred on a single hand. Tomorrow's Hand.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

North—Dealer. Neither side vulnerable.

that August carnings were better than July's.

Carrier stocks were soggy from the start, particularly those which had been recent favorites on the long side. New York Central dropped 4 net, Santa Fe 45-8, Union Pacific, Delaware & Hudson and Pennsylvania 3 each. Northern Pacific and Southern Pacific nearly 4. Lackawanna 5 1-2.

Elsewhere, United States Steel, American Telephone, General Electric, American Telephone, General Electric, American Smelting, International Telephone and American Tobacco "B" 3 lost 2 to 3 points net, while International Harvester, Case and Western Union slumped about 4. Most preferred stocks joined the decline, Sales totaled 4,042,349 shares.

The market's action in the latter part of last week had indicated to many observers that a period of more accurate reckoning might be at hand and that bullish hopes could not indefinitely continue dominant unless quickly supported by basic favorable changes.

There has been some evidence that

There has been some evidence that a turn in business was in the making. Short selling is said to have increased in the last few markets on the theory that the time was ripening for a setback of fair-sized proportions. Also, stop-loss orders have been plentifully sprinkled through the list and with buying enthusiasm markedly restrained it was less easy to check declining tendencies. | Fra & Qu T | Color | strained it was less easy to check de-clining tendencies.

Many brokers felt that the small gain in United States Steel's backlog, although the first improvement in nearly a year and a half, was a rather negative bit of news. Preliminary estimates mentioned another rise in steel operations for this week.

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER. NEW YORK, Sept. 12.-(A)-Speculative bubbles were pricked indiscriminately in the curb market today, as the list was deluged with profit-taking sales.

Losses ranged from 1 to as much as 12 points in prominent issues, and the tur ver of 600,000 shares was the largest of the month.

the largest of the month.

The market took its cue from the big board, but as severe as the reaction was, most brokerage quarters were inclined to regard it as primarily a corrective reaction, necessitated by a top-heavy situation resulting from the protracted bull campaign.

Electric Bond & Share reacted 6 points today to 33 1-2, but recovered to close at 34 7-8. Slight recoveries from the lowest appeared in a number of leaders in the last hour.

In the industrials, Aluminum Company tumbled 12 points to 65. Deere, influenced by reactionary grain markets, dropped 4 to 12, then recovered to 13. In the oils, Gulf dropped 3, and Cities Service was off 1-2 point to 5.

Mr. Lightman discussed recent trends in the business, including the growing practice of double feature showings and the recent innovation of exclusive rights to a picture for some of the larger first-run houses.

Hon. John A. Boykin, Solicitor General, Atlanta, Georgia. Dear Mr. Boykin:

As you know, I have been out of Atlanta a great deal the past summer, enjoying the mountain breezes and mingling with these good mountain folks up here.

I have been keeping up lately with your candidacy for re-election as solicitor-general. and have been very much interested in your campaign, because of my high regard for you.

I have watched your untiring and commendable work as solicitor-general; I know with what honesty, courage, fearlessness, and impartiality you have labored to see that the laws were enforced, and that crime and graft have been reduced to the point where Atlanta is a better city in which to live. I feel quite sure that, your duty having been well performed, the people of Fulton county will consider it a privilege to reward you by an endorsement of your administration, which I think is so well deserved.

Trusting that this finds you well, and knowing that you are busy in your campaign, but feeling sure that your election will be settled by a handsome majority, I am
